Made from One Tree

The Tulars people are going to exhibit one of the results of the California climate in an altogether original way. There is a tree in that county which is a fair specimen of what the redwood can be if it grows enough. It stands in a gorge deep enough to be awful, and its topmost boughs, where the cones are thickest, are on a level with the highest rocks on the s'des of the ravines It is not out yet, so the measurements so far taken may be at fault a bit one way or the other, but they are near enough the truth to make safe betting. The tree is 390 feet high, 96 feet from the but to the first bracch, and 26 feet through at the very base. A log of clean, smooth wood that will measure 90 feet in length average 20 feet in diameter can easily be cut out of it. That is what the Tulere people propose to do, and having the log they will utilize it to the benefit of the World's Fair and the glory of Tulare. The tree grows well up towards the head waters of the Kaweah river and the great log will have to be carried or moved in some way to the railroad at Visaiia. a distance of nearly sixty miles.

Is is a stopendous undertaking, but the people of that country do not stop at trifles. In all likelihood the trunk will be cut in sections lengthwise, and then the sec tions will be put on trucks and taken over the log-road. Ox-teams will do the hauling, probably a score of span to the section. In many cases a road will have to be cut through and built up. Crooks and turns and precipitous slants will have to be avoided, and often when the road is up-bill it will require the combined strength of all the exen to had a section of the tree up the steep. When finally the giant of the Tulare woods is where it can be moved on railroad cars it will have cost hundreds and hundreds of dollars and six months will have passed from the time the men with axes started to fell it.

Then the important work will begin. The log will be made whole by the putting to-gether of the sections. Expert woodsmen will cut it across in the middle, making two lengths each 45 feet long. Each of these lengths will then be hewe into the shape of ordinary railway passenger coaches. The rough bark of the tree will be the roof of the car, and on the sides and ends the natural wood will be left unpolished.

The inside will be hollowed out, windows and doors put in, and the interior finished after the fashion of Pallman cars. One will be a buffet and dining car, with apartments for bath, barber shop and kitchen. The other will be a sleeper with an observation room. Platforms will be put at the ends and ordinary trucks underneath, and to prevent the transformed tree from failing pieces under any circumstances, heavy bands of iron will be put around the body of the car .- Chicago News

LITTLE PIGS IN BLANKETS .- Eighteen large cysters, an equal number of slices of boneless breakfast bacon, and a plate of toast should be allowed for three persons. Get the bacon where they use a machine for cutting it, and have it cut as thin as a shaving If you cannot get it cut in this way, it is better to buy the bacon in the piece and cut it with a sharp knife yourself. The slices should be so thin that one could almost see through them. Wrap each oyster in a slice of the bacon, and fasten it with a wooden tooth-pick. Light the lamp, having the wicks rather high, and place the granite-ware dish over it. In a few put in as many "little pige" as will lie flat on the bottom of the pan. Turn constantly with a fork until they are brown on both sides, serve at once on slices of toast. Put in another layer and cook as before. With a dish of common size six or eight can be cooked at a time -Ladies' Home Journal.
